Air Transport

Dear visitor, the first step to care about once you have decided to spend your holidays in Albania is the trip. If you have chosen to travel by airplane in the following we will deal with the troubles and the most common issues one may face and what are the procedures and conditions of an eventual compensation.

Air carrier passenger rights

The granted air passengers' rights in Albania are principally provided not only by the Albanian Republic Air Code are also adapted by Regulation no. 1 date 26.02.2013 on 'compensation, passenger assistance in the event of denied boarding and cancellation or delay of the flight' of the Minister of Transports (which transposes Regulation (EC) 261/2004 by European Council and Parliament. The objective of the Regulation no. 1 date 26.02.2013 for 'compensation, passenger assistance in cases of denied boarding and cancellation or delay during the flight' of the Minister of Transports is to define the compensation rules and assistance for passengers in the following situations:

- Denied boarding
- Cancellation
- Delay
- Downgrading of the service category

The guideline issues the enforcement right to the Civil Aviation Authority as the national responsible body its full implementation for passengers who depart from an international Albanian airport or from a non EU member state international airport to Albania, in cases applied to Albanian operating air carriers.

Note: In the event where passenger departs from an EU member state (regardless of the operating air carrier's nationality) or in the event where the passenger departs from a country outside EU and travels on an EU licensed airborne operator, its rights are first guaranteed by the EU Regulation

(EC) 261/2004. In the event where the passenger departs from a third country outside EU to Albania or to EU member state, but provided service by an operating air carrier not licensed in Albania or any EU member state, consequently its rights are recognized neither by the Albanian Regulation nor by the EC Regulation.

Article .1 Guideline Scope

The rights defined in the regulation are implemented to:

- b) passengers departing from an airport located in a third country to an airport located in the Republic of Albania (or CEAE) in cases when the operating air carrier is of Albanian nationality (or CEAE according to the unilateral agreement), not including cases when compensation and assistance is previously offered in the third country.

The Albanian Civil Airport Authority, as the national authority that guarantees the provision of passenger rights processes the claimed complaints that benefit basing on the guideline, pointing and orienting passengers the rights and steps to follow when possible for benefitting of their rights and claims, providing the necessary measures towards the operating air carriers that do not implement to the defined and agreed rights.
